

Abstract

5 The present invention relates to highly lustrous gold-colored metal effect pigments comprising a copper-based alloy and additional metallic alloy components, preferably zinc, and which are produced by means of strip-ping and comminuting metal films deposited in vacuo.